

Regence 2025 Annual Overview

Since Regence was founded 108 years ago, we have grown into a family of taxpaying not-for-profit health plans that have both deep local roots and national impact.

We are the largest health plan in the Northwest/Intermountain region, serving more than 3.6 million people in Idaho, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

We have served in all of our states for many decades and remain steadfast in our commitment to ensuring that families and employers have access to affordable, high-quality health care. As a not-for-profit, Regence is focused only on serving our members and communities instead of chasing the whims of shareholders.

Through our charitable foundation and our employees, we partnered in 2025 with nonprofit groups that are addressing the greatest needs in our four-state footprint, like expanding the health care workforce, building resilience among children and families, and supporting people as they age.

As part of the Blue Cross Blue Shield Association health plan system, Regence is powered by the strongest national provider network in the country, which drives access and quality care.

Our local ties and national reach help us make the health care system more person-focused and economically sustainable while supporting our members to live their healthiest lives.

“As a not-for-profit, Regence is focused only on serving our members and communities, instead of chasing the whims of shareholders.”
